

BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM BEST PRACTICES

Now that you are using, or have recently introduced, BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM in your practice, I would like to share some practical tips and best practices to help ensure a smooth experience for both your team and your patients.

Below you'll find guidance on vial reconstitution and administration, as well as feedback from clinics that have successfully integrated BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM into their protocols.

Reconstitution Tips*

1. Shake the fluralaner powder vial thoroughly before adding the diluent (vehicle) to help minimize clumping.
2. When transferring the diluent into the fluralaner powder vial, rotate the vial to a horizontal position and inject the diluent slowly.
3. If clumping occurs during reconstitution, allow the vial to stand for 5–10 minutes and then shake it vigorously. This will help dissolve any remaining clumps and facilitate complete reconstitution.
4. Don't hesitate to shake vigorously during reconstitution.
5. As we enter the busy parasite control season, when appropriate maintaining two vials of reconstituted BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM at all times. This practice can help prevent delays in preparing doses and reduce waiting time for pet owners.

Administration Tips*

1. Administer BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM within two minutes of drawing up the patient's dose. Always use an 18G needle when using BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM.
2. A lick mat or a treat can be a helpful distraction for dogs during administration, if needed.
3. Concurrent use of BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM with vaccines or other medications is not contraindicated.
4. Every day is a good day for a BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM injection! Because the efficacy is sustained for up to 12-months following administration, dogs can be treated any day of the year.

Feedback from Practices Using BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM

1. Many clinics find a "soft sell" approach effective: mentioning BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM at every wellness visit and offering to administer it during vaccine appointments.
2. Teams are highlighting how changing weather patterns affect parasite risks, and how BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM removes the guesswork around the flea & tick risk period.
3. Some hospitals have added BRAVECTO[®] QUANTUM to their wellness plans to support consistent, year-round flea & tick protection.
